Preacher from Hell

The preacher was from hell, said the hostess on a small plane flight as she sat down in one of the other 5 seats and began to talk. After about 20 minutes of talking to an Australian and discovering I was a Christian, she stopped in amazement and said, "I'm sure glad you are not like the last preacher we had on board". She then proceeded to describe how one missionary on his way to South America had demanded absolutely everything and made such a loud noise about his mission to South America to save the natives so his luggage couldn't be delayed and it must be guaranteed to be on the plane and off the plane whenever he needed it. "He might have been going on his way to teach the natives about heaven," she said, "but he was a preacher from hell!"
